

Arts & Humanities

Application deadline: November 4, 2016 at 5 p.m.

Maximum award: $1,000

The Maine Arts Commission and the Maine Humanities Council collaborate to provide Arts & Humanities grants that assist organizations in Maine to investigate and present stories and cultural expressions of the state, its communities and its people.

There is a 1:1 required in-kind or cash match for this grant.

Project may start no sooner than December 30, 2016.

ABOUT THE ARTS & HUMANITIES GRANT

These grants support projects and public programs that include or combine both arts and humanities disciplines. The arts build communities by helping them discover their cultural assets, building audiences and promoting the excellence of the creative sector. The humanities explore the nature and value of human experience through literature, history, theology, philosophy and the disciplines of social and political science.

The range of potential projects under the Arts and Humanities grants is limited only by the community's imagination. The funding partners are particularly interested in projects that explore diverse cultures or represent rural areas of the state. Projects might include a local folk life festival, a community performance of a historical play, a school-based historical mural project or a project combining oral history and documentary photography.
